Name _____

Estuary Environment: What Does Not Belong Here?

Florida estuaries provide homes for a variety of living and nonliving things. The mixture of salty water and freshwater create a special environment for everything that belongs here.

Let's see if you can decide which things do not belong in an estuary. Study the pictures below and draw an X over each thing that should not be in an estuary. When you finish, the unmarked pictures will show the things that do belong in this special ecosystem.
